Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from American Commission for the Study of the Application of the Cooperative System to Agricultural Production, Distribution, and Finances in European Countries The following pages were prepared by The Southern Commercial Congress in order to make known the public considerations which led to the decision to appoint an American commission to inquire into the organization of agricultural business in Europe. It has been thought well that I should explain briefly how the project which has received such remarkably influential support came to assume its present shape. The researches of the International Institute of Agriculture in Rome, Italy, had demonstrated the immense importance which Governments on the Continent of Europe attach to the employment by farmers of the best business methods which it would seem are by general consent cooperative. Hon. David Lubin, the American delegate to the institute, had in numerous publications impressed upon the American public the importance of an improved system of agricultural credit, which, probably owing to his advocacy, figured prominently in the presidential campaign, each of the three parties making it part of its constructive policy. This gave rise to a nonpolitical movement aiming at a thorough European inquiry as a preliminary to legislative or other action. The President summoned a conference of the governors of the States at the White House on December 7, 1912, for the consideration of this question. The interest aroused led to a widespread feeling that the scope of the inquiry should be broadened. The instructions, which are printed in the following pages, will explain the precise nature and purpose of the investigation which is to take place. It is hoped that as the result of the...
